These programs are provided through our online webcast, digital format to a live audience, as well as recorded and made available in an on-demand format after the live broadcast.

These programs have become widely favored by the respiratory care profession and typically house 500-800 participants during the live event. Many of our more popular broadcasts are archived and accessed 100’s of times over subsequent months/years. You can find webcasts currently at http://www.aarc.org/upcoming-programs/.

Continuing education is the learning process used by professionals to keep abreast of changes in their respective fields to improve the quality of services they offer. In the context of respiratory therapy, continuing education can help the therapist maintain knowledge and skill while providing new information to modernize the therapeutic and diagnostic techniques learned in formal education.

AARC recognizes the need to provide a diverse array of educational topics and opportunities for the respiratory care profession that is not included in our portfolio of courses at AARCU.
